

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

International Lesson—June 13, 1909.
NUMBER XI—Luke 12:13-21.

TITLE—The Rich Man's Folly.
TOPIC—Ward on Covetousness.
OUTLINE—
1. The Spirit of Covetousness, vs. 13-15.
2. The Course of Covetousness, vs. 16-19.
3. The Penalty of Covetousness, vs. 20, 21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Take heed and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth—Luke 12:15.
CENTRAL TRUTH—It is folly to lay up treasures on earth at the expense of treasures in heaven.

LESSON CONNECTION.

There is some difficulty in determining just at what point in our Lord's ministry this incident should be placed. If it is the same incident as reported by Matthew, who follows the care of a dumb demoniac, with a similar accusation and discourse then this should be placed at an earlier period in Christ's ministry—on the day when the discourse in parables was spoken somewhere near Capernaum. If it is not the same as recorded in Matthew, then it belongs to the final journey from Galilee. To whatever position it belongs, it follows the healing of a dumb demoniac; he is accused with being in league with Beelzebub; a woman calls him blessed, discourse to the multitude; a dinner in the house of a Pharisee where the Lord denounces the Pharisees; their hostility increasing, he addresses the multitude. While speaking, one of the multitude makes the request with which the lesson begins.

Persons—Jesus surrounded by many thousands; disciples near him; one of the multitude; in the parable, a rich man, to whom God speaks.

Incidents—Some one asks Jesus to compel his brother to share an inheritance with him. Jesus denies the plea, and gives a warning against covetousness. The warning is embodied in a parable of a rich man whose increasing riches absorb his whole being, and he is devising means for storing his wealth, and making provision for his own pleasure. God rebukes him, with a prediction of a speedy death. Then follows the application.

LESSON SUGGESTION.

The Spirit of Covetousness—This spirit was manifested in the request made by the man—"Bid my brother divide the inheritance with me." He may have been a younger brother, who was dissatisfied with his portion of the estate, and was moving for a contest. His entire spirit displayed covetousness—the sin that has reaped so many souls. The advice given by the Savior was a warning against an evil end—a charge of vigilant watchfulness—"Take heed and keep yourselves from all covetousness." He states a fact, that is incontrovertible, that happiness does not consist in the possession of riches. "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Man can not live by bread alone. You should be free from the love of money, for it hath been well said that the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil. Avarice will wreck a soul and drag it down to perdition.

The Course of Covetousness—The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully. He trusted in his riches forgetting that such a trust was as a broken reed, and that a man depending on such a trust would surely fail. He becomes surfeited with riches. He begins to devise means to store his wealth. "I have not where to bestow my fruits." His plan is formed. "I will pull down my barns and build greater." And this, too, in the midst of a needy world. This man with plenty, prosperity and an abundance of means, is wholly without a beneficent spirit, for he addresses his selfishness thus: "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, be merry." It is the very essence of supreme selfishness and indifference to the misery and helplessness of those around him. Such is the fool's idea of the soul's needs. Such is the fool's provision for the life of his soul.

The Penalty of Covetousness—"God said unto him, thou foolish one." He is classed with fools, and the fool that hath said in his heart, there is no God. God is the judge, man is the culprit. "Thou foolish one." What is the finding of the Judge? "This night is thy soul required of thee." There is no dodging this requirement. This is the supreme requirement. The demand is immediate, and the decision of the Great Judge is irrevocable. The soul is cut off from life—so that he who had much of this world's riches, whose entire being was wrapped up in them, is found to be not rich toward God. He is stricken with wretchedness and poverty to all eternity. He that layeth up treasure for himself may be called wise as the world goes, but he has sunk to the extreme depths of poverty and foolishness for the next world. There is no text that contains a more impressive lesson for the present time in our country, than the golden text of this lesson: "Take heed, and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

Just as sure as hot weather comes, there will be more or less bowel complaint in this vicinity. Every person, and especially families, ought to have some reliable medicine at hand for instant use in case it is needed. A 25 or 50 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is just what you ought to have and all that you would need, even for the most severe and dangerous cases. It is the best, the most reliable and most successful treatment known and is pleasant to take. For sale by A. R. Champney.

BEGOLE'S IMPROVED LIGHTNING FENCE MACHINE

Is the only practical machine on earth for building Slat and Wire fence. This broad assertion we are prepared to prove by actual test, which is the strongest evidence that can be offered. A few reasons why it is the best.—The stretcher tightens each wire separately, and lets off all the wires at once. (When weaving in pickets you use up the wire) thereby keeping the same tension on the wire at all times just alike. Should a wire break it can be let off, spliced and taken up without interfering with the rest. Our loom rides on the wire on pulleys (which save the necessity of leveling off the ground), twist the wires as many times as you wish, levels the pickets from the top, drives the pickets to their place, plumbs the pickets either on level or hilly ground. Will pass a splicer in the wire, and many other good points which none others can use as we are protected by patent. Good, wide-awake agents wanted.
